SCOTCH 'N' SODA

Funded by Student Senate

. . . is Carnegie Mellon University's student run theatre organization. Entirely student managed and staffed, it is a group dedicated to giving students at the university the opportunity to pursue interests in the dramatic arts.

The company was founded in 1907 by a group of Carnegie Tech students calling themselves the White Friars. The original intent was to form a club to produce and perform original musical revues. In 1938 the White Friars changed their name to Scotch 'n' Soda.

Each year Scotch 'n' Soda hosts a variety of events including a fall Short Plays series, acting workshops , technical workshops , and writing workshops. Some popular shows which originated in Scotch 'n' Soda include Pittsburgh's first all-improvisational show Improv '88, last years hugely successful This is Not a Test, Godspell, and Pippin. These and other S 'n' S productions have won many honors, including the prestigious BMI award.

We at Scotch 'n' Soda hope that you enjoy our spring production, in this our 82nd year. If you are interested in getting involved in any aspect of theatre, we would love to hear from you. For information, call 268-3522 or stop by the S 'n' S office, Skibo Room 60.

For the benefit of the actors, and those around you, please refrain from: eating, drinking, smoking, flash photography, nose picking, llama herding, and flagrant public displays of affection.
